Bitterest Cold Wave of Season Hits Midwest

Wintery Blast to Push to Atlantic, Gulf Coast Areas

By United Press

The bitterest cold wave of the season, borne on near gale force winds, knifed across the northern Plains and the Midwest today. Weathermen warned the cold blast would push to the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts by nightfall.

Sub-zero readings were common at the core of the frigid air mass from the eastern Dakotas across Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and the northern Great Lakes.

International Falls registered an early morning low of 15 below zero, and near zero readings occurred as far south as Des Moines and Chicago.

Temperatures in the teens extended southward through Kansas, Missouri and southern Illinois.

Wind gusts up to 60 miles per hour ushered in the cold wave in Oklahoma, Iowa and North Dakota, while gusts up to 40 m.p.h. were felt in Minnesota, Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

The high winds fanned a fire out of control at Nicollet, Minn., Tuesday night, destroying three buildings, and another fire destroyed the four-building business district of Wellsburg, N. D.

Snow flurries, some of them locally heavy, accompanied the wintry weather from the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley into Pennsylvania, New York state and northern New England. A light snowfall hit as far south as Memphis, Tenn.

The heaviest snow accumulations occurred along the southern and eastern shores of the Great Lakes.

About two inches of snow blanketed heavily-populated Lake County, Ind., and four inches fell at South Bend, Ind., during the night, causing numerous minor traffic wrecks and mile long traffic jams.

About one inch of snow covered the ground as far south as Cincinnati, Ohio, and Flat Top, W. Va. A combination of rain and freezing rain made driving hazardous during the night along the north Atlantic coastal area.

Sub-Zero Cold Hits Illinois

By United Press

The first sub-zero readings of the season were reported today in Illinois.

A cold wave which pushed the mercury to 1 below at Joliet swept the state during the night.

The forecasts called for sunny and quite cold during the day with high readings ranging from 12 in the northwest to 20 in the south.

At 7 a. m. Chicago reported 2 degrees above zero—within a degree of the record for the date set in 1919.

Other early morning temperatures included 1 above at Rockford and 1 below at Dubuque, Iowa.

Peoria had 4 above, Moline 3, Springfield 7 and Rantoul 5.

Southern Illinois conditions were reflected by readings of 8 above at Vandalia, 9 above at St. Louis, 10 above at Evansville, Ind., and 13 above at Paducah, Ky.

The state Highway Division at Springfield reported scattered icy spots in sheltered areas on roads in east-central and northeastern sections at 5 a. m.

The division also said there was some glazing on pavements in counties along the Mississippi River in southern Illinois.

Violence Breaks Out in N. Y. Subway Strike; Bus Operations Threatened

NEW YORK (UPI)—Violence broke out in New York City's strike-crippled subway system today and a new transport crisis threatened breakdown of city bus operations

Fantastic Traffic Jam

Four leaders of the MBA remained in jail for contempt of court and the acting strike leader, Secretary-Treasurer Frank Zelano, was ordered to appear in court to show cause why he should not be jailed for continuing the strike in the face of a court injunction.

A Transit Authority spokesman said 600 bus maintenance men were off the job this morning. Buses are fueled to last through the morning rush hour only, he said. Even if re-fueling can be accomplished, he said, the normal rate of mechanical breakdowns could lay up between 5 and 10 percent of the bus fleet a day as long as the shop workers stay out.

The city was snarled for the third day in a strike which has cut the five-million-passenger-a-day subways to less than half service. Harrassed commuters faced a further possible transport cut on city bus lines which have been striving to take up some of the displaced subway riders.

There was no sign of a break in the strike which was begun Monday morning by the small Motormen's Benevolent Assn., to protest its domination by the giant Transport Workers Union. Six other

Eight Children, Killed in Fire, Buried in Single Casket

PARK FALLS, Wis. (UPI)—Eight children, ranging in age from 1 to 10, were buried in a single casket Tuesday afternoon while their reprobable father and grieving mother looked on.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Klein had nothing to say to each other. They have not spoken to each other since their children burned to death in their home last Sunday while Mrs. Klein was sitting in a car with "another man."

Klein has been working at a logging camp 30 miles distant to earn extra cash to pay for the children's Christmas presents when the multiple tragedy occurred.

Dist. Atty. Carl Bjork said Mrs. Ardette Klein, 38, had left her children shortly after noon Saturday, went to a tavern, and did not return until the following day when an overheated oil burner turned the home into an inferno.

She was bound over to Price County Circuit Court Tuesday on charges of child neglect.

The parents arrived at the cemetery in separate cars. They left in separate cars.

Members of the K-Y club at the Harrisburg Township high school will literally give the "shirts off their backs" for Christmas charity this year.

John Schork, faculty sponsor of the club, which is sponsored by the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, announced the club members voted to present the program at the high school assembly program at 10:30 a. m. next Tuesday.

They will sing first carols and then in turn take their shirts off and they will be sent to Boys Town in Missouri.

The family requests no flowers.

Burial will be in the Sunset Hill cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the Keathley funeral home at 4 p. m. Friday until the funeral.

In addition to his wife, Rev. Hughes is survived by his aunt Mrs. Myrtle Towles, Harrisburg, and his uncle Rev. Charley Dulley, Colp.

A Transit Authority spokesman showed department store losses of more than two million dollars daily in the Christmas shopping week which should have been one of the year's biggest. Department store Santa Clauses looked out into child-empty toy departments throughout the city.

The Board of Education said one million school children had missed all or most of their classes as a result of the strike. They were mostly students in special and vocational high schools which draw sub-way commuting youngsters from all over the city.

Our Dual Presidency

EDITORIAL BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
The American presidency has undergone a marked change in character.

Reporters close to the White House are telling us that as a result of the light stroke which befell President Eisenhower we now have a duality in the executive power without precedent in history.

Vice President Nixon, while not assuming in actuality the duties of the presidency, has become in effect an alternative president. If President Eisenhower is unable to attend the NATO conference he will head the United States delegation with presidential powers to commit our country.

Due to limitations imposed by his previous illnesses, Mr. Eisenhower has been compelled to function at a percentage of his capacity. Some reports have placed this as 50 per cent. The American people clearly understood that this was the prospect when they returned him to office last year because he told them this was the case.

It is inevitable that if Mr. Eisenhower continues to hold the presidency—and his press secretary has indicated he has at present no other thought—he must take more vacations, play more golf, spend less time wrestling with the frustrations of our military, scientific, economic and political problems.

Mr. Eisenhower is a symbol—perhaps more than any other man in our time save Winston Churchill—of the optimistic hopes and capabilities of the free world.

It is fortunate, however, that he has taken the precaution to train and indoctrinate with his own high aims a strong, able and high-minded young assistant and alternate, Dick Nixon.

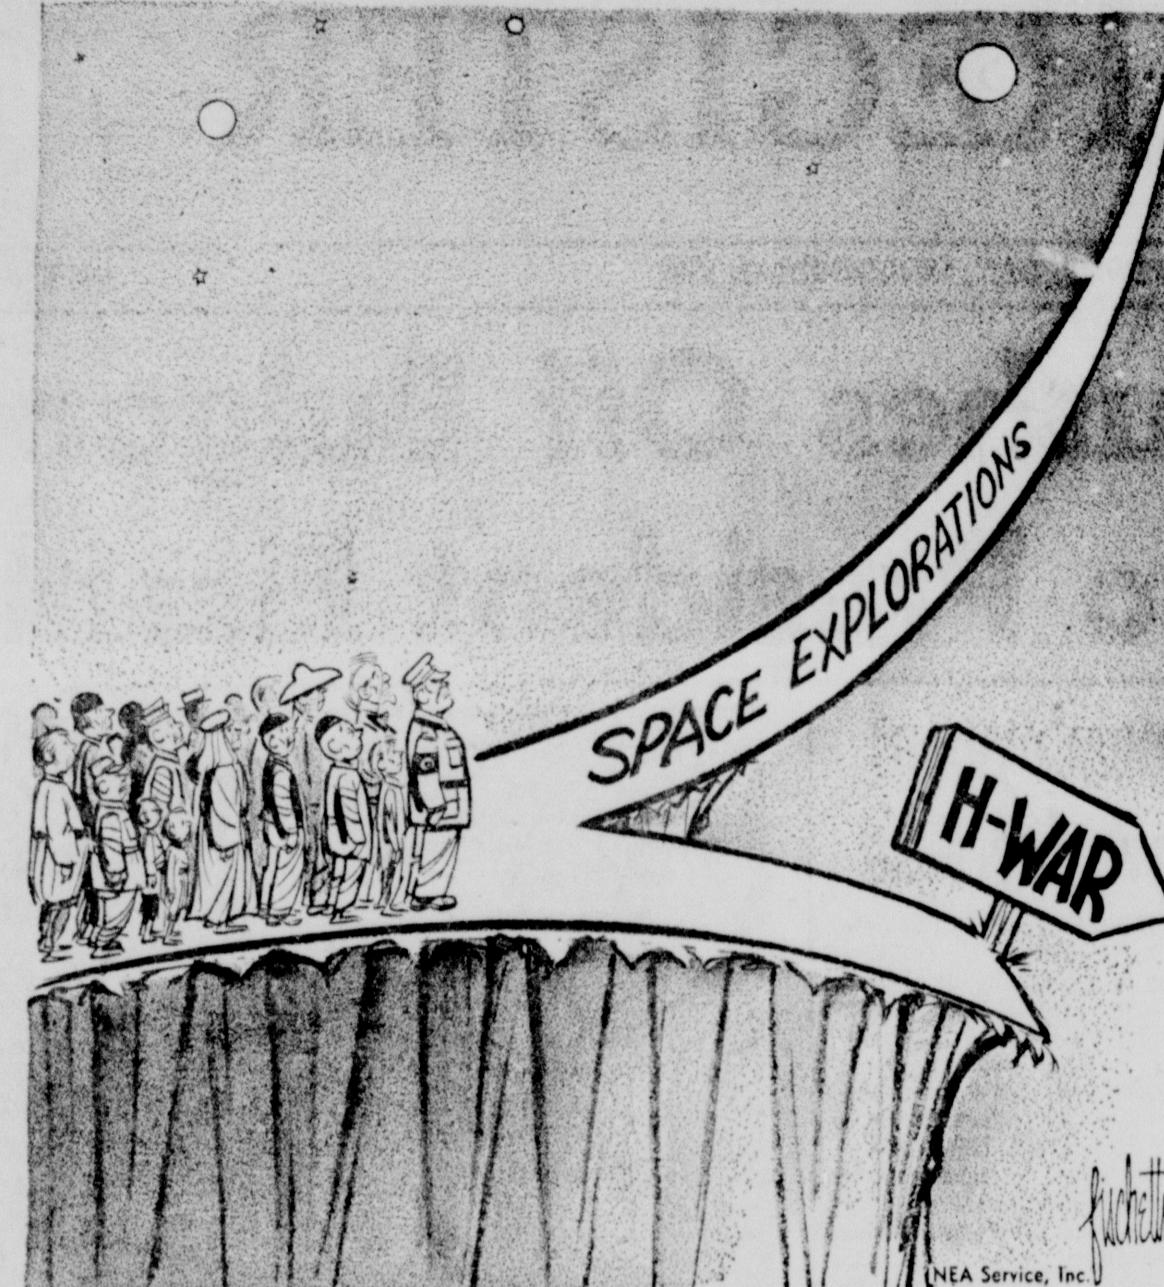

Education should teach children to make great decisions—such as when not to run for president.

Change in the Old Crossroad

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Nixon And Adams Struggle For White House Power; Jim Hagerty Tried To Block Nixon From Going To Paris; Missile Program Vs. Balanced Budget Is Involved.

WASHINGTON — The biggest backstage story in Washington today is the struggle for power between Vice President Nixon, the man who is almost certain to end up in the White House, and Assistant President Sherman Adams, the man who has hitherto run the White House. It involves the future of our missile program, the future of the presidency, and the future of the United States.

In the middle is Dwight D. Eisenhower. In the opposite wings on Adams' side are astute Jim Hagerty and the White House staff; on Nixon's side, powerful Republican leaders including Attorney General Rogers and to some extent Secretary of State Dulles.

No harsh words are being exchanged. Both sides are discreet and circumspect. Vice President Nixon is careful not to appear to be trying to step into Eisenhower's shoes. Nonetheless, the battle is very real and bitterness crops out in unguarded moments.

Here are the details of the struggle:

Long before Sputnik, Vice President Nixon was battling backstage to meet the Soviet challenge, and to heck with the cost.

He knew, as did everyone else in the administration, despite the strict secrecy ban on information to the public that the Soviet was forging far ahead in missiles, satellites, and almost every modern weapon.

NIXON BLOCKS ADAMS

His opponents were Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Defense Wilson, and Adams. It was Humphrey and Adams who, two years before, after Ike's heart attack in Denver, had blocked Nixon's quiet move to assume more authority. They let him preside at cabinet meetings and National Security Council meetings but that was all.

Humphrey and Wilson, however, have now dropped out of the cabinet. Sherman Adams remains—efficient, tight-lipped, devoted to Eisenhower, determined to block Vice President Nixon from assuming too much authority, and still anxious to balance the budget.

HAGERTY GETS MAD Hagerty persuaded Dulles to make no final decision on whether Nixon should attend the Paris meeting, but keep it open until later when Eisenhower himself could personally approve the appointment.

This accounts for the fact that the State Department had sent one set of instructions to the American embassy in Paris that Nixon was coming while the White House was giving out a contrary statement that Eisenhower might come.

To reassure the nation and because Nixon insisted, Hagerty agreed to let Nixon use the White House for an unprecedented news conference. As far as newsmen can remember, no vice president ever held a press conference in the White House before. Nixon then announced that he would preside at cabinet meetings and at the meeting with legislative leaders.

He also told reporters that the President was having difficulty finding words to express himself. This infuriated Hagerty. For Hagerty had told the press that the President was having difficulty only in pronouncing certain long words.

It was immediately after this that Hagerty retaliated against Nixon by announcing that Eisenhower might go to Paris. Later Eisenhower presided over both the cabinet meeting and the congressional conference, even though he trilled quite slowly and was tired. This boxed off Nixon. The President, however, took no part in the struggle, did not even know what was going on.

Thus continues the silent, backstage battle for power in Washington.

Illinois Payroll Up In October

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—State Auditor Elbert S. Smith Monday reported the October payroll for Illinois climbed 1,872 persons and $384,000 over September levels. The increases largely were the result of the fall opening of state schools. The total payroll for the month was $17,005,239, including $4,731,740 for faculty and staff salaries at the state colleges and universities, Smith said.

The number of state employees for the month was 51,304, including 13,062 persons employed at the various educational institutions.

The total number of state employees other than those at the colleges and universities decreased by 338 during the month, Smith said. But the University of Illinois alone increased its total employees by 2,085 as the fall term opened.

Smith said the October, 1957, payroll was up by 77 persons and $1,108,471 from the same month last year, including educational employees.

The higher dollar total reflected the new state pay scale under the personnel code, he said.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.

(Written for NEA Service)
YES-MEN are puppets who have sold their personalities for a mess of pottage. They allow other people to dangle them on unseen strings. They do not think for themselves. They have drugged their consciences with the drug of curried favor. They act like skeletons which crumple to the ground when their manipulators choose to drop them from their grasp. They have no sinews, no muscles, and few if any brains. Their flesh has been replaced with putty which stays in shape only a limited time.

We have little respect for yes-men yet we are inclined to follow the leader who offers us momentary recognition for our backing. We sometimes split our loyalties for a temporary benefit. We go so far as to sell our souls for a fling of sin.

God does not want puppets. He wants men who think, and pray, and act for themselves courageously. He will give guidance and assistance but He will not dangle us on strings and make our decisions for us.

Miss Ann Josey and Jack Pankey
Married at First Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pankey

Miss Ann Josey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otho Josey, 302 East Raymond, Harrisburg, and Jack Pankey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman F. Pankey, were married in the First Baptist church at 7 o'clock on the evening of Nov. 30. The Rev. R. J. Morman performed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with a wedding arch entwined with greenery and large baskets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a floor length wedding gown of nylon and lace over satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a Queen Anne collar and long sleeves pointed at the hands, and a full skirt with lace inserts and lace roses, and ruffles across the back. Her elbow length veil of illusion was secured to a bandeau of seed pearls matching those on the skirt of the gown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with a large satin bow ending in long streamers.

Mrs. Jim Prather, friend of the bride, served as her matron of honor and wore a floor length nylon blue ruffled dress. Her headress was a blue bandeau with a short matching veil. Her blue and white carnations were styled into a bouquet bearing a blue satin bow.

Jim Prather acted as best man for the bridegroom.

Ron Culbreth, Jim Josey, Dick Santy and Bill Morse were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with a large white nylon collar and a white feather hat. She wore a corsage of red rose buds.

The mother of the bridegroom chose for her son's wedding a dress of dusty pink lace and a white hat. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Ralph Woolard sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "The Lord's Prayer." Frances Cummins was the organist. There was a reception in the education building of the church immediately following the wedding and the bridal table was covered with a white linen cloth caught up at intervals with blue satin bows and baby chrysanthemums. The three tiered cake in the center, supported a miniature bride and groom and the punch bowls were at either end. The table was softly lighted with white candles in tall silver candelabras.

Hostesses at the reception were

The Psi chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, met for luncheon in the First Presbyterian church Saturday. Following the luncheon there was a business meeting and Mrs. Corine Jessop, President, presided. Miss Alvina Shestak was in charge of the clothing collection to be sent to Greece, a project of the chapter for several years.

The concluding feature of the meeting was a talent auction, a sale of articles made by the members. Mrs. Faye Mitchell, Carmi, served as the auctioneer.

Harrisburg members are Mrs. Ida Mae Thompson, Mrs. Mayme Carroll, Mrs. Olive Dixon, Mrs. Bessie Kerley, Miss Alvina Shestak, Miss Alice Mount, Miss Ruth Brockett and Miss Julia Williamson, formerly of Harrisburg now teaching in Alton.

22 At Amoma Class Christmas Party

Arriving during a flurry of snow, members of the Amoma class of the First Baptist church had a Christmas-like setting last night at the home of Mrs. R. C. Riegel on North Main street, for their Christmas party. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Kuma McNabb, Mrs. J. B. Moore, Mrs. Archie Abney, Mrs. Lossie Temple and Mrs. Alta Williams.

Christmas music chimes, bells and the tree with its encircling gifts, later unwrapped in exchange remembrances, were the enchantments of the evening. Charades, a Christmas devotion, and a duet by Mrs. McNabb and Mrs. Everett Hood were also a part of the program, following which cake, decorated with Christmas wreaths, and coffee were served. Candy canes and Santa Claus corsages were favors.

Those present were: Mrs. J. A. Musgrave, teacher of the class; Mrs. Lloyd Reynolds, pianist; Mrs. C. F. Gidcumb, Mrs. Charles Gibbons, Mrs. Cyrus Steinwitz, Mrs. Walter Wirth, Mrs. Charles Kelly, Mrs. M. R. Williams, Mrs. Roy Rievley, Mrs. Ira Criggs, Mrs. James Gilley, Mrs. Pearl Allen, Mrs. C. C. Porter, and the class president, Mrs. E. W. Smith. Mrs. Felix Porter, Santa Barbara, Calif., was an especially invited guest and the house guest of Mrs. Porter.

Annual Christmas Party Held For Lloyd L. Parker Store

The annual Christmas party for the Lloyd L. Parker furniture store was held in the Rathskeller of the Elks club Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Parker greeted their guests as they arrived and Christmas music was played by Lorene Dorris and Mary Jeanette Parker during the dinner. Thirty guests were seated at decorated tables and served a steak dinner.

Following the dinner, Santa Claus presented each guest with a gift and pictures were made. There were games with prizes awarded to the winners.

The group congratulated the program committee for the success of the evening. The committee was: Bea Moore, Elizabeth Rittenberry, Margaret Robinson and Dorothy Hancock.

Christmas Customs Are Reviewed At D. A. R. Meeting

"Christmas Customs in the Colonies" was the subject for the program given by Mrs. Victor Hunn at the meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the home of Mrs. Charles Burnett, Monday evening. Mrs. Hunn started with customs that were observed in the original thirteen colonies but since the people of the colonies came from all parts of the world, her review was a good example of general customs of the people of all the world at Christmas.

She had selected pictures of typical gifts and scenes from these observances of customs and even had some beautiful jewelry sent to her by her friends in the Far East. There were pictures of scenes from the Church of the Nativity, ancient and modern, also.

Mrs. Frank Gray, regent, opened the meeting and following the pledge of allegiance to the flag, the group joined in singing the national anthem. Mrs. Charles Combe presented her meditation as chaplain of the chapter and much of it was given in poetic form.

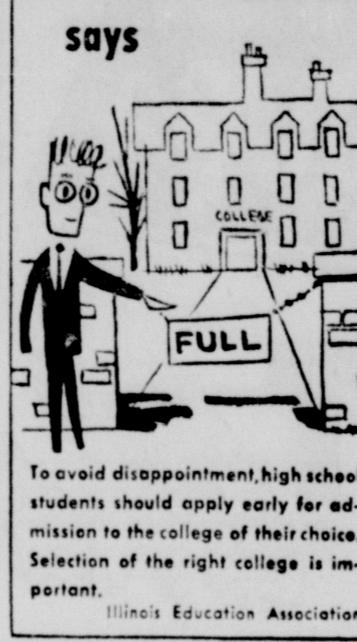

The National Defense topic was given by Mrs. J. V. Capel and she quoted from several sources to illustrate the power of moral and spiritual values in world affairs to strengthen the nation's physical defenses.

Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Bernard Moore, Mrs. D. A. Lehman and Mrs. Paul Hatfield were hostesses and served refreshments to the group.

During the business meeting the secretaries' and treasurer's reports were heard, and plans were made for the coming year and for the continued growth and improvement of the chapter program.

Mrs. Carrie Wilson, mother of Mrs. Harry Hess, fell on the stairs of their home last Thursday. She was taken to the hospital for x-rays and it was determined that no bones were broken. She is at home and getting along just fine with only minor bruises to mark her adventure.

GI Checks Will Be Mailed Early

Approximately 25,000 Illinois veterans in school under the Korean GI bill will get a Christmas present from Uncle Sam in the form of early mailings of their GI allowances checks this month, the Chicago Veterans Administration office reported today.

A special time-saving system will enable VA to get GI checks in the mail before most veterans—students go home for the Christmas vacation, provided schools and veterans cooperate, VA said.

The law requires that the veteran and his school submit a certification to VA that he has been in training all month. VA must receive this report before the check can be authorized.

Arrangements have been made with the Chicago Treasury Department Disbursing office—which actually issues the GI checks—for earlier-than-usual mailings.

Normally, VA explained, GI allowance checks are mailed around the 20th of the month. But in December, many schools and colleges begin holiday vacations before that date.

A few exceptional cases may exist in which it may not be possible to make the GI payments ahead of time, VA said. But in

Limit Using Wiles On Men in Business

CHICAGO (UPI)—Keep it strictly business to be a successful career girl, advises a former Earl Car Glamour girl.

The working woman thinks she must decide whether to be "one of the boys" or rely on feminine appeal to make a successful business deal, says Jacqueline Offin, head of a New York firm (Joy Distributing Co.).

"It's all right for a woman to use femininity to its best advantage for the first impression on an executive," she said. "But once you're in, make it strictly business."

Miss Offin, who admits being a "proud grandmother," believes too much feminine appeal may lead to loss of respect.

"Women should base their business relationships on sheer ability and trust. Show the men you are a serious-minded, capable girl," she said. "American men have accepted us as business equals. Just be your earnest, hardworking self and you'll keep their confidence."

Big Bend National Park, in western Texas, encompasses more than 707,000 acres of mountains and canyons.

In most cases, veterans should receive their checks before going home for Christmas.

THE STORY: After Hugo Howell asks Jim Bennett, a private investigator, to break up an affair between Wayne Howell, the client's son, and a woman named Sandra, Jim tells the father that Wayne is already married.

IX

He didn't leap to his feet, shout at me or do anything I expected. He just sat very still, staring at me, an incredulous look in his eyes. When he spoke I could barely hear him. "How do you know?"

"Your son told me last night. He suspects that you hired me to break up his affair with the woman—I told you that—and he said I was wasting my time because he and the woman are already married. When will he be 25?"

"Next month," he said dully. "If I could just have stalled it off a little longer . . . When did he get married?"

"He didn't say."

"He might have told me," he said with sudden bitterness. "I'm his father." He paused, and something like a gleam of hope entered his eyes. "Maybe he's lying."

"Maybe," I said.

"Lock," he said suddenly, "if you're squeamish about doing what I wanted, will you check for me, find out if they are really married? And get the woman's background, all of it? Wayne won't talk to me. He—he's bitter, because he thinks I didn't treat his mother like I should have. Maybe he's right about that, but it's too late now." He sighed. "Will you do that much for me?"

What I was suggesting now was within the legitimate and ethical boundaries of the profession, and I felt much better about the whole thing. I could now accept the job with a clear conscience and at the same time please the old man in New York. I said, "Yes, I can do that, but didn't those other men you hired learn the woman's background?"

He shook his head. "They didn't do a thing but follow her around and try and catch her with another man. She was smart, because they never did. Wayne caught one of them and beat him up. I even went to her myself and begged her to lay off. Wayne tried to buy her off. But she just laughed at me. She knows the ropes, all right."

I said, "Have you thought that maybe she is really okay, that she loves your son and will make him a good wife?"

He sighed and pulled a hand down over his unshaven face, making a dry, rasping sound. "Ben nett," he said heavily, "let's face it; right now, it's the money. Of course, I want the boy to marry the right sort of woman, a—a decent one, but this woman is no good and she's got him hooked. Maybe if she was the right sort I'd go along with it and try and get Wayne to wait until he's 25 before he gets married, make a deal with him. But she'll ruin the boy, and—"

"All right," I broke in. "I understand. No matter if the woman is good or bad, it's still the money is that it?"

"Yes," he said bleakly.

"That's the way I like it," I said, "on the line. I figured you weren't too concerned about your son's happiness."

He moved a hand helplessly. "It's not exactly that way. After all, he's my own flesh and blood. But he could have waited another month. He knows about the terms might some day spend a holiday here.

I made inquiries at the hotel and learned that the last cottage was the Osterman place.

Home Bureau Unit Entertains Husbands

The Galatia Home Bureau unit had a combined business and social meeting Saturday and made it a husband's dinner party. This is an annual custom at the Christmas season. Potluck supper started the meeting at 7 p. m. in the John C. Small home and Mrs. Joe Hatcher gave the lesson on "Gifts from the Kitchen." She illustrated her talk with a tray of packaged gifts that she had prepared including a can of home grown sage, a jar of Christmas cookies, a glass of jelly and a bowl of peanut brittle made with peanuts from the Fanno Bledig garden. She stressed the importance of these gifts for elderly people and semi-invalids and those who use commercial foods.

The house and tables were appropriately decorated with evergreens and silvered pine cones. Sunshine friends were remembered and husbands had a gift exchange. Mrs. "Pete" Gardner led the invocation before the meal.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fanno Bledig, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pulliam, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Cardwell, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Large, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hatcher and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Stevens.

Mt. Moriah W.S.C.S. met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John Robinson. Mrs. Walter Gollher, president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Clifford Knight led the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. George Jenkins led the prayer. The lesson, "The March of Missions in Evangelism," was given by Mary Margaret Small. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served. This group was guest of the coffee club on WSIL-TV Saturday.

Elder T. Lee Dodd will be the featured speaker for the Brushy P. T. A. meeting at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Benson Plans Extension of Acreage Reserve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson announced today an experimental scheme to put entire farms into grass or trees. The twin objectives will be reduction of crop surpluses and conservation of natural resources.

If the trial succeeds, Benson told a news conference, there is "a good chance" the administration will push for a sizable exension of the program.

The experiment will be an extension of the existing conservation reserve plan in the soil bank program. Under it farmers are paid to shift crop land into grass or trees for contract periods ranging from three to 10 years.

Benson new plans to let farmers submit bids for government contracts on which they would "deposit" their entire farms in the conservation reserve for at least five years.

The administration also may decide to ask Congress to kill the other section of the soil bank—the short-range acreage reserve program—after 1958, Benson revealed. Top policy makers are considering that question now, he said.

The new "bid" system for the conservation reserve will be tried in Illinois, Maine, Nebraska and Tennessee, Benson said. First bids probably will be received about Jan. 1. If the system succeeds in these areas, it may be expanded into other states early next year, he added.

AFL-CIO Calls For Sizable Wage Increases

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — Leaders of organized labor called today for sizable wage increases next year to offset a "deteriorating" economy.

The rally cry for more pay in '58 for 13,500,000 members of the AFL-CIO was sounded in a resolution the federation's convention was almost certain to approve.

Key features of President Eisenhower's proposals to prevent union-management racketeering were blasted Tuesday by labor's hierarchy, which claimed marked progress in the AFL-CIO's own antiracket drive.

Meany Skeptical

A "very skeptical" George Meany, federation president, warned that some items in the administration labor package might be used to put all union activity under government control.

The dip in business activity makes it twice as important that unions get big pay hikes to beef up consumer buying power, the resolution said.

Meany told the AFL-CIO general board to examine closely the administration program outlined last Thursday by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell. He warned that some of the proposals would allow too much government interference.

Blasted Picket Curb

The AFL-CIO president blasted the program's picketing curbs which he said would give special protection to the "non-union . . . substandard employer" and infringe on the constitutional right of free speech.

The proposal to require secret-ballot elections "bothers me very much," Meany said. It goes "pretty deep into the internal affairs of the trade unions themselves." He said the "new bureaucracy which they will call the office of the commissioner of labor reports" would be "only a very short step . . . to licensing legislation" for unions.

Godard's Win Prize In National Contest

Godard's Farm Market, 629 North Main street, Harrisburg, was the only winner in the St. Louis area of the Purina industry's national contest on Purina's new Dog Chow, which was held during the early fall. The prize was $100, received by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Godard, who returned Tuesday from a meeting of Purina dealers, held in St. Louis.

In the national contest prizes were also won by dealers in California and Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Godard also learned that their tonnage of feeds and mixes sold was tenth in the St. Louis district, and largest in southeastern Illinois.

Marine Dies in Drinking Bout

CHICAGO (UPI) — A young Marine died early today when he held a belated birthday party with some friends and drained a pint of whisky to prove his manhood.

James Nichlich, 21, was pronounced dead at his mother's home when an inhalator squad failed to revive him, detective Edward McQueen said.

The two-year Marine veteran had met with four friends and spent a few hours drinking "boilermakers," whisky and beer. At the house of John Ostrum, 20, a pint of whisky was brought in and Nichlich splashed a liberal amount into a water glass. Referring to his 21st birthday, he was quoted as saying:

"Now I'm a man. I'll show you what we do in the Marine."

He drained the glass, then filled it about two-thirds full again and repeated his boast, authorities said.

He passed out at midnight and was taken home. He was pronounced dead at 2:00 a.m.

Seek to Link Sex Offender to Girl's Disappearance

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — Authorities today sought to link a convicted sex offender accused of molesting a nine-year-old girl with the mysterious disappearance of Maria Ridulph.

FBI agents and police were led Tuesday night to the ex-convict's hideaway, an empty stone building on an abandoned military reservation 14 miles south of here, by the little girl found sleeping in a car with Donald Arbuckle, 34.

A preliminary investigation showed nothing to identify Arbuckle with the Ridulph case, agents said, but they said his room in Rockford was stocked with photographs of nude children, some in obscene poses.

Police said the arrest of Arbuckle was the first possible break in the case of the missing seven-year-old Ridulph girl. Maria disappeared from near her Sycamore Ill. home with a man known as "Johnny" last Tuesday night.

Arbuckle was arrested Tuesday morning when he and a nine-year-old girl who had been missing 12 hours were found sleeping in his car, he in the front seat, she in the back.

Police said Arbuckle denied touching the girl at first, saying that he had only taken her to a movie and for a ride. He later admitted molesting her and was charged with statutory rape, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and takin' indecent liberties with a child, police said.

Arbuckle, a factory worker with a record of crimes against children, barely escaped a kidnapping charge when it was discovered the girl's parents had permitted him to take their daughter for auto rides several times, authorities said.

Mills, who is chairman of the House subcommittee on internal revenue taxation, said farm policies will not be revised overnight or perhaps not very much in the next year or two."

"But unless steps are taken soon to begin constructive revisions," he warned, "we run a grave risk that drastic, ill-considered action will be forced on us."

Mills said the present array of support, production control and disposal programs "cannot be thrown in the ashcan tomorrow," and he suggested that farmers begin by seeking ways to make current programs work more effectively.

Delegates to the convention late Tuesday recommended that an agriculture trade center be established in Western Europe to expand the overseas market for American surplus farm products.

The proposal, submitted by the Farm Bureau's resolutions committee, said the center would be privately financed with no governmental funds involved.

The plan is subject to final ratification at Thursday's final convention session.

relief. Reaction also was favorable from two Congressional delegations to the NATO parliamentary conference.

Symbol of Peace

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said "the President is a symbol of mankind's desire for peace. His attendance . . . will assure constructive action in strengthening NATO's defenses."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said "I hope that he (Eisenhower) will conserve his strength. But his presence there will be very important."

White House Physician Gen. Howard McC. Snyder and Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son, will accompany him. Eisenhower will stay at the American embassy.

The White House medical announcement Tuesday indicated the President is still suffering from a slight speech difficulty. But the statement said it has "continued to improve and in ordinary conversation was almost impossible to detect" except by trained observers."

Under the present law the price support floor under basic crops can not be lowered below 75 per cent of parity.

Benson proposed the step as one move in a gradual program to take "the dead hand of government" out of American agriculture and bolster the free enterprise system.

"Ours is a dynamic industry," he said, "it cannot and should not be regimented and controlled by the dead hand of government."

Suggests Bipartisan Commission

Benson told the nation's largest farm organization that he seeks "no additional authority for myself."

"If the Congress feels that such discretionary authority should not be lodged in the hands of any one person, a bipartisan commission might be appointed to assist the secretary of agriculture in the determination of price support levels," he said.

Benson said that when he and his aides go before Congress they will:

"Make specific proposals that would have the over-all effect of giving farmers more freedom in deciding what crops they would grow and market."

—Recommend changes "which will permit the markets more freedom to reflect the decisions made by those who produce and those who consume our food and fiber."

—Continue to emphasize exports and the development of foreign and domestic outlets.

Benson said he would not recommend that wheat and cotton "be subjected immediately and fully to the unrestricted competitive forces of the free market."

Twenty-five years of sheltered existence are poor conditioning for the rough-and-tumble of the market place," he added, "but we should—we must—move gradually but clearly away from controls on our farmers."

Benson said agriculture has been and is being "hurt by too much emphasis on parity ratios and rigid formulas."

The proposal, submitted by the Farm Bureau's resolutions committee, said the center would be privately financed with no governmental funds involved.

The plan is subject to final ratification at Thursday's final convention session.

Four Miners Killed by Blast

GREENWOOD, Ark. (UPI) — An underground explosion ripped through a coal mine between Greenwood and Hackett, Ark., early today, killing four miners. Two others nearby were slightly injured.

Bill Lewis, owner of the Peerless Coal Co. mine, said three of the bodies had been recovered.

A rescue team of seven or eight men was working to recover the fourth body, but Lewis said it was a slow operation because they were having to take fresh air down with them.

Lewis identified the dead men as Joe Martin, L. D. Sewell and Gene Moore, all of Paris, Ark., and George Simmons of Greenwood.

Lewis said the explosion was caused by an accumulation of methane gas in the mine.

Benson to Ask Power to Lower Price Supports

Tells Farm Bureau Plan Is Step to Cut Gov't Program

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said today he will ask Congress for discretionary authority to lower price supports on basic farm crops.

Benson told the American Farm Federation at its annual convention he will urge that "ad-ditional administrative discretionary authority be provided for setting price supports for basic crops between 60 per cent and 90 per cent of parity."

Under the present law the price support floor under basic crops can not be lowered below 75 per cent of parity.

Benson proposed the step as one move in a gradual program to take "the dead hand of government" out of American agriculture and bolster the free enterprise system.

Three Boys Aid Hospital Drive At Murphysboro

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (UPI) — Murphysboro's drive to raise $600,000 for a new hospital is getting a man-sized lift from three pint-sized boys.

Ten-year-old Charlie McCann has pledged $7.80 over the next three years. He is donating 5 cents a week from his fee for stoking a furnace for his grandmother.

His brother, 8-year-old Jim, is going to part with a dime a month. He sells Christmas cards and bakes and sells cornbread on Saturdays.

But 8-year-old Mike Goliher is the heady one. He has pledged a dollar. He gets his money from his parents at the rate of a nickel for every "A" he brings home on his report card.

Under the present law the price support floor under basic crops can not be lowered below 75 per cent of parity.

Benson proposed the step as one move in a gradual program to take "the dead hand of government" out of American agriculture and bolster the free enterprise system.

California Baseball Gold Must Be Found in Minor League Parks

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The principal rea on why the Dodgers and Giants hurried to the far west was Walter Francis O'Malley's prospective land grab in Los Angeles.

Now that the Chavez Ravine cause celebre must be placed before the voters, Owners O'Mally and Horace Stoneham no doubt are wondering why they were in such a rush.

For if there is major league baseball gold in California, it must be found in minor league parks, with even bigger parking problems than the Brooklyn and New York clubs had at Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds.

The Giants, who accommodated 54,000 in Harlem, must spend the first year in San Francisco at Seals Stadium, which seats no more than 18,075.

Unless the Dodgers, who had pews for 32,000 in Flatbush, play in a huge football stadium totally unfit for baseball, they will be confined to the 21,400 seats of the present Wrigley Field for at least two years.

And unless that pay TV talk was considerably more than promises, there is the little matter of $700,000 in simulcasting swag which isn't coming.

The new stadium in San Francisco depends entirely upon Charles Leonard Harney. Get-It-Done Harney's health had better stay good. The contractor bank-rolling the project had better not change his mind.

NO ONE IS PROUDER of San Francisco than William M. Coffman. No one knows more about showmanship when it is applied to the Golden City. So it should be disquieting news to the Giants when a man of Bill Coffman's experience and knowledge says he will be surprised if they draw more than 800,000 people the first year.

"I don't want to be put in the position of rapping San Francisco," says Coffman, in New York

McPeek, speaking at the 12th annual Awards in Human Relations lunch, said opportunities for unskilled workers were hard to find, good housing at modest rental almost "non-existent," and employment frequently "seasonal."

He said many non-Chicagoans have heard that there are many jobs in Chicago.

"What they have not heard," McPeek said, "is that if they don't speak English well, or don't have real working skills, or cash to get along for awhile, or friends to help them—Chicago can be very rough indeed."

School Commission to Study Problem of Aid Loss To Districts Hit by Flu

BY RAYMOND R. COFFEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois' School Problems Commission chief raised hopes today that school districts hit this fall by Asian flu outbreaks will not suffer the losses in state aid they feared.

State Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh (R-Champaign) said the problem will be at the top of the agenda at a commission meeting in Chicago Thursday.

State school aid is based in part on average daily attendance in the schools. The widespread pupil absences brought on by Asian flu cut deeply into attendance and therefore into the amount of state aid the afflicted school districts can claim.

Clabaugh said he felt "sure the commission will come up with some remedial solution." Any legislative change in the basis for distributing state aid would have to wait until the 1959 General Assembly, but at that time, he said, it could be made "retroactive" and thus head off the expected losses this year.

List Some Remedies

He said school districts were particularly hurt by the Asian flu because costs, for example for substitute teachers, were climbing at the same time that state aid claims were being reduced by absences.

Some of the possibilities for correcting the situation as listed by Clabaugh were:

A law to provide for "indemnifying" school districts which suffer state aid losses because of "emergencies." An epidemic, for example, might be classed as an emergency, and a school district indemnified for any losses it suffered.

Basing state aid on "average daily enrollment" instead of average daily attendance. The problem here, Clabaugh said, would be to get a good, working definition of "enrollment."

Eliminate "emergency" months from the calculations used to compute average daily attendance over the school year. Or use the month before or the month after as a substitute for the "emergency" month in figuring the average daily attendance. Or figure average daily attendance only on a five or six month basis instead of on a whole school year.

Losses Are Great

"We want to be helpful in this situation," Clabaugh said. "We realize the problems in the districts and we didn't appropriate that money school aid just to have it lie over there in the treasury."

The commission, the Illinois Education Assn. and the superintendent of public instruction do not yet have any statewide figures on what losses school districts suffered in the Asian flu outbreaks. But an idea can be obtained from the reports or estimates of some local districts. Some of the estimates are great.

For example, Decatur Schools Supt. Lester J. Grant has estimated schools there may lose as much as $100,000.

Urbana Schools Supt. C. C. Loew figured the losses for his District 116 at $8,400.

In Peoria, the loss was estimated at $20,000. Jo Daviess County School Supt. Harold Taft estimated school there may lose $46,000.
